Local Attorney Named For Judson Honor

Judge Fleetwood Carnley of Elba shared honors at Judson College June 28, with the president of the University of Tennessee. In his commencement address Dr. Holt reminded graduates that friendly faces ease both personal and international relationships and that they result from love of God.

He and Miss Cecelia Harrison of Prisco City were given the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award presented annually to a student and non-student. The presentations are made at Auburn University, the University of Alabama, and Judson College, through the generosity of the New York Southern Society.

Mrs. Carnley accepted the Sullivan medal for her husband. An accompanying citation paid tribute to him as "one whose total approach to life demonstrates those characteristics of heart, mind, and conduct as evince a spirit of love for and helpfulness to other men and women."

Friendly helpfulness to others was also emphasized by Dr. Andrew D. Holt, much-honored president of the University of Tennessee. In his commencement address Dr. Holt reminded graduates that friendly faces ease both personal and international relationships and that they result from love of God.

"You must love your fellow men, all of them, especially those who are not so lovable, who can't do a thing for you, and who may not love you," he said.

The speaker is a former president of the National Education Association and is now vice chairman of the Education Commission for the States. He was introduced by Judson's Dean Charles Iyer as a man whom people love "because he has people at his heart."

Miss Elizabeth Crabtree of Birmingham received the Judson Bible Award given annually for outstanding Christian service to the college.

Wardrobe Displayed In Enterprise

The adult wardrobe of spring and summer garments was on display in Enterprise recently and was viewed by approximately 80 homemakers. Eighteen home-sewn ensembles were previewed by these homemakers who were interested in techniques of construction, color combinations, design and style. For example, current fashion trends dictate colors to be clear and fresh and fabrics stress softness, flow and texture. Moreover, designs offer a completely unique variety of looks. The combinations of all these ingredients result in one of the most appealing seasons ever.

Mrs. Orell Parker from Basin Community and Mrs. Hansel Byrd from the Wesley Chapel area are two who have a great deal of sewing expertise. These homemakers not only sew for themselves, but for their families.

As a result of examining the simplicity wardrobe and construction methods, Mrs. Parker commented on the number of ways a zipper can be applied. Of course, the hidden zipper is the newest, but many of the garments shown featured the hand application. Mrs. Byrd noticed that all the garments were either lined or underlined. Lined and underlined garments fit better, hold their shape longer and look nicer on the person. A lined garment is one in which the lining is not attached to the outer fabric. In an underlined garment the lining is sewed into each seam. Both methods are good. Whether to use one or the other is simply a matter of preference of the seamstress. All the homemakers viewing the Simplicity collection of garments noticed that the designs were larger, many had patch prints, dots, geometrics and florals, and the fabrics were soft, open weave and loosely woven. The display described above is just one of many consumer information programs sponsored through the year by the Coffee County Extension Service. For further information, contact Sara E. Hutchinson, Associate County Extension Chairman, Enterprise Courthouse.

ATTEND THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE SUNDAY

Behind the open Book, we see the Star Spangled Banner of the United States and the cross-borne flag of Christianity. Does this seem like a strange combination to you—the flag of a nation beside the flag of a religion? Not at all! Look into the Bible and see these great truths: MAN IS THE CHILD OF A LOVING GOD; WE ARE MADE IN GOD'S IMAGE. Here is explained the DIGNITY OF THE INDIVIDUAL.

Now we begin to realize how close is the relation between democracy and the Church. Our national flag, our church flag would not be here today were it not for the open Book. Come learn of this Book. Come worship and study in the church of your choice this Sunday.

In Alabama, more than 25,215 veterans and 3,425 servicemen have trained under the G.I. Bill. Some 12,438 of these veterans and 1,343 of these servicemen received college-level training, the VA Regional Office Manager observed. In addition, 12,102 servicemen in Alabama entered schools below college-level. Smart said 675 veterans have received on-the-job training since this benefit went into effect October 1, 1967. The VA further revealed that more than 5,714 of these veterans and 186 service men were studying in colleges in Alabama, while 4,210 veterans and 887 servicemen pursued below college-level training.

In addition, a total of 463 veterans took on-the-job training in Alabama this spring. To be eligible for education and training assistance under the current G.I. Bill, a veteran must have at least 181 days of service, with some part after January 31, 1955, Smart said.

For each month of military service, and eligible veteran receives one-and-one-half months of educational assistance. Washington Report

by GEORGE ANDREWS

Member of Congress Third District of Ala.

It's going to be "Katie bar the door" for the draft boards around the country, now that the Supreme Court has given new life to so-called conscientious objectors who "object" simply for moral or ethical reasons, and not religious ones.

Last week's five-to-three decision reversing the conviction of Elliott Ashton Welsh, II, for refusing induction in the Army, might well have been expected from the High Court. The decision is, nevertheless, a tragedy and an invitation to absolute chaos.

For what it's worth, the Court insisted that in order to keep out of the battlefield, a non-religious conscientious objector must have beliefs that are "deeply held."

The learned justices did not bother to explain just how the hapless members of local draft boards will be able to determine whether an objector's beliefs are deeply held or merely convenient camouflage for draft-dodging.

In the case of the bearded Mr. Welsh, who just capped a three-year prison term, he claims that his beliefs were formed "by reading in the fields of history and sociology."

The Selective Service Act allows conscientious objectors status to those who are opposed to participation in war in any form "by reason of religious training and belief."

That's what the Selective Service Act says. It says that because Congress decided that it should say that. The Constitution gives Congress the sole power "to raise and support armies; provide and maintain a navy; and to make rules for the Government and regulation of the land and naval forces."

Enter now the Supreme Court to meddle again where it should not be meddling. It says that some non-religious folks just don't fit into the Act's description of people with "essentially religious, sociological, or philosophical views or merely personal moral code."

Justice Hugo Black tells us that the philosophical view and moral code restriction should not apply to "those who hold strong beliefs about our domestic and foreign affairs or even those whose conscientious objection to participation in all wars is founded to a substantial extent upon considerations of public policy."

In other words, disagreement with public policy and disenchantment with the United States' domestic and foreign affairs become bases for shirking one's duty of defending this on an anti-religion binge, loyal and decent young men, devoted to their country, need not believe in a "Supreme Being" as such armed forces, and they are exactly the ones who will suffer when cowards and traitors are let off the hook.

Creep-feeding for cows should be considered any time 100 pounds of weight gain is worth more than 700 pounds of feed.

During 1969 U. S. commercial red meat production was at a record high for the fourth year. The January to November red meat output was almost 32 billion pounds.

Coffee County History To Be Published

The early settlers of Coffee County were basically religious and brought their faith with them to their new homes, and they expressed their faith by building churches in each community.

The religious field from the beginning has been largely pre-empted by the Baptists and Methodists, though there have always been people of other faiths. The religious impulse of the people was such that by 1850, there were twenty-three churches in the County. The Presbyterians had one organized church and the Baptists, and Methodists, had eleven each. These included Primitive Baptists and Hard-shell Baptist, Methodist Episcopal, and Methodist Protestant churches. The twenty-three churches had aggregate accommodations for 4,375 people. The fact that there were seats for three-fourths of the population, including the Negroes, is significant. The slaves did not have their own churches but usually some part of the churches of the whites were set aside for them.

The Presbyterian church was valued at $125,00, and the Baptists and Methodists

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of chapters from Fred Watson's "Coffee Grounds," a history of Coffee County, that is now in the hands of publisher. The book, when released, will be 270 to 300 pages, hard cover, illustrated with many pictures. Orders are now being taken at the pre-publication price of $5.40 including tax and handling and mailing costs. Mail your check or money order to: Roy Shoffner, chairman of Publication Committee, 406 Doster Street, Enterprise, Alabama 36030.

each valued their eleven buildings at a total of $1,375. The average cost of the twenty-three buildings in the county was $125 each. The people were poor and did not try to build pretentious buildings, nor did they try to outdo each other in building attractive churches. Most of the buildings were unimpressive churches. The buildings were frame structures, rectangular in shape. The insides of the buildings were very plain; the plank seats uncomfortable, often having wide cracks in them.

There were nine ministers in the county in 1850 as reported by the United States census for that year. Five were Methodists, three were Baptists, and one was Presbyterian. Services were held monthly at most churches, with services on Saturdays and Sundays. In the summer, after crops were laid by, a revival meeting would be held in each church for a week or more.

The religious impulses of Coffee County have come a long way since those early pioneer days.

A few nights ago Mr. and Mrs. Leion Weeks of Route 1, Kinston, entertained some folks. Two 4-H clubs were organized by Mrs. Tolbert Sumblin and Mrs. Kaye Courson. The interesting thing about this is they made the ice cream in syrup buckets. They said it was delicious. Those of you who might be interested in this technique and recipe can write to them and get details.

Mrs. Vonille Shealy who owns property in Coffee County has been invited to attend and appear on program on Ninth Auburn Forestry Forum. Mrs. Shealy will appear on program on Thursday morning, June 18, at Comer Hall.

I have written this week to a number of Coffee County timber owners inviting them to the program which will begin Wednesday morning, June 17. I plan to attend with Mrs. Shealy and hope to see a lot of folks from Coffee County and the wiregrass.

Several of our Coffee County dairymen asked me about organizing a Coffee County Dairy Improvement Association (DHIA). The first ones to mention it were Don and Mickey Smith who have a dairy south of Enterprise. Others who expressed interest in-

Check With ACP Before Changing Standards

Farmers and ranchers installing cost-sharing practices under the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) were reminded today that they should not make any changes in performance standards unless they consult their County ACP Office in advance. The Chairman of the Coffee County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, Roy L. Ellis, said all ACP conservation practices must meet performance requirements. When a farmer's ACP application is approved by the County ASC Committee, the farmer receives notice of these requirements. If he decides to substitute materials, or may be change the design of a conservation structure there is a possibility the change won't meet the requirements. In that case, the ASC Committee might not be able to make cost-share payments for the practice. Nobody wants that to happen. So to be on the safe side, a farmer should always check with the County ACP Office before he makes any change in his ACP practice," Mr. Ellis said.

He also reminded farmers to be sure performance requirements are being met as the conservation work progresses. He said that occasionally after the work is completed it is found not all specifications have been met -- and regulations require they must receive ACP cost-shares.

Under ACP, the Federal Government shares the cost of conservation and pollution-abatement practices needed to assure, in the public interest, the wise use, protection and improvement of soil, water, woodland, and wildlife resources on the nation's agricultural lands.

Farmers who plan to grow vegetables for the processor under contract should have the contract signed as soon as possible in February.

A lot of folks don't realize it but weeds are robbing a lot of our pastures of fertilizer and moisture. And weeds just won't make cattle grow and be profitable. Frank Brunson, Route 4, Enterprise, realizes this and came by to get our recommendations. He has a field of coastal bermudagrass which he has just recently planted which is infested with all kinds of weeds. There are several products on the market with label clearance that will do an excellent job of cleaning up weed infested pastures. Brunson doesn't have the equipment and spray but is getting Clayton Walden to do the job for him.

Shower Fetes Bride-Elect

The home of Mrs. Roger Winston was the setting for a bridal shower Saturday, June 27, honoring Miss Judy Cox of Phenix City, bride-elect of Eddie Bryan. The decor for the delightful occasion accentuated a color scheme of yellow and green. The serving table overlaid with a white satin cloth with large yellow bows held two silver candelabras with burning yellow candles. A silver punch service was outlined with green fern and yellow day lilies. The background an oriental screen was decorated with smilax centered with day lilies.

Receiving the guest with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Jasper Cox, Phenix City, and the mother of the groom-to-be, Mrs. Edlow Bryan.

Hostesses serving and assisting Mrs. Winston were Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. Lynn Hargrove, Mrs. Jeral Bulant, Mrs. Lamar Vaughn, Mrs. Franklin Knight, Mrs. Leroy Lawford, Mrs. Aliene English, Mrs. Marvin McWhorter, Mrs. Colton Whitman and Miss Gert Trawick.

Approximately 60 guests called.

The packages are airtight. Freezer containers are also recommended.

For best quality, maintain a zero degree or lower freezer temperature. Refrigerate or use it as soon as possible. Many people try to fill their freezers with corn by going to a curb market or farmers' market late in the day and buying corn that has been frozen all day and is too high or even the fluctuation of pressure causes loss of liquid.

If you are not careful when canning, fruit will float if it is overripe, if the pack is too loose or if processed too long.

LAWNS AND SHRUBS

June is the best time to apply fertilizer to most shrubs and ornamental plants. Fertilizer applied later will promote late growth that may be damaged by cold weather.

When fertilizing established shrubs and trees, so well advises broadcasting fertilizer evenly on the soil surface. A plant's feed roots often extend twice the distance of the limb spread.

CANNING

Home-makers are making plans for the canning season which is just around the corner. In order that you have good quality products there are rules to follow. For example, to avoid loss of liquid during processing be sure food is packed to tight and do not freeze it. Sweetcorn isn't sweet if it doesn't remain cool after harvest. If sweetcorn is allowed to stay in the sun or in a hot place for several hours after harvest, practically all the sugar turns into starch. Anyone knows that starch isn't good as sugar.

NEW LAW PUTS LIMITS ON WAGE GARNISHMENT

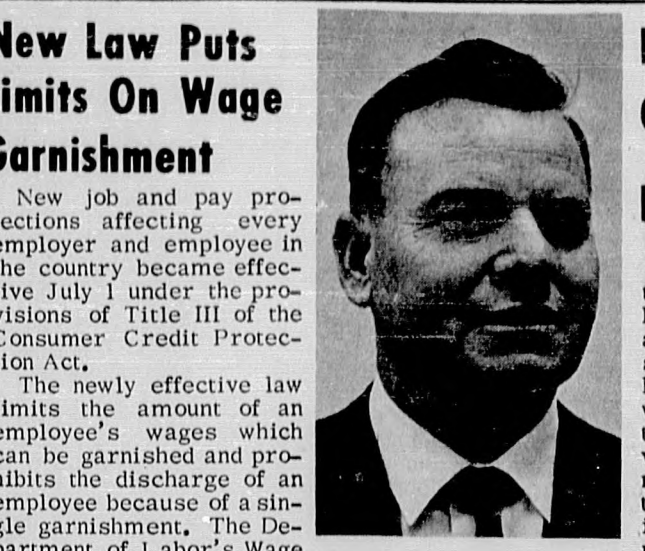

New job and pay protection affecting every employer and employee in the country became effective July 1 under the provisions of Title III of the Consumer Credit Protection Act.

The newly effective law limits the amount of an employee's wages which can be garnished and prohibits the discharge of an employee because of a wage garnishment. The Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Division which will enforce the law estimates that more than 30,000 employees lose their jobs each year because of an employment policy of firing employees whose wages are garnished. Many additional thousands lose their incentive to work when their pay checks are reduced below subsistence levels through garnishment proceedings.

Tom Casaday Is Honored For Writing

Thomas C. Casaday, Coffee County Extension Chairman, has been named a first place winner for the Southeastern Region in the 1970 Public Information Awards Program.

Casaday was awarded this honor for having submitted the best news column in the contest. His column was judged winner over 59 columns submitted by the participants from 12 other states in the region.

As a regional winner, Casaday will receive a $50 cash award and his winning column will be entered in the national contest.

Casaday is one of 129 Extension workers who write weekly columns for daily and weekly newspapers throughout the state.

The News Column Awards Contest is sponsored by American Products, Inc., in cooperation with the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

Blake said his Agency has mailed nearly 5 million notices of the new law to employers throughout the country. The penalties for violation of the prohibition against discharge are high: a year's imprisonment, a $10,000 fine, or both.

Senators John Sparkman and James Allen and Congressman George Andrews today announced a $2,500,000 Department of the Army contract award to Page Aircraft Maintenance, Inc., at Fort Rucker, Georgia.

The contract is for maintenance of 1,100 rotary and fixed wing aircraft at Fort Rucker and Fort Stewart, Georgia.

The American Legion and Ladies Auxiliary will meet tonight (Thursday) to elect officers and install officers to serve the coming twelve months.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 P.M. Everyone attending will take a covered dish and a fellowship supper will be enjoyed prior to the business meeting.

Farmers Are Getting Payments Earlier This Year

Farmers who have contributed to stabilizing markets for food and fiber and to the conservation of soil and water resources by taking part in the 1970 wheat, feed grain, and cotton programs are receiving their program payments earlier this year than ever before.

According to Roy L. Ellis, Chairman of the Coffee County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The first batch of payments will be made beginning July 1. Additional payments will continue to be made as rapidly as farmers certify compliance with program requirements and as fast as individual farm records can be processed and checks returned to ASCS county offices for distribution to farmers.

"Because of the excellent cooperation between farmers and their local ASCS office, 70 percent of the participating producers in Coffee county will receive their payments on or about July 2, 1970," Mr. Ellis said.

Mr. Ellis said that most payments should be completed by mid-August, if farmers who signed up will complete the necessary certification indicating that they have complied with all of the program provisions.

Farm program payments help maintain a balance between supply and demand, the chairman explained. He pointed out that both farmers and consumers benefit from this balance.

"Agricultural productivity almost doubled in the past 20 years, but farmers markets take only about a third of this increase," Mr. Ellis said.

"Huge surpluses must be avoided. They are costly in tax dollars and are wasteful of food and fiber."
